"DEEPLY PENITENT, I AM GUILTY," SAYS RICHESON

Confessed Murderer Will Hear His Doom in Court on Monday

FAC-SIMILE OF THE REV. CLARENCE V. T. RICHESON'S REMARKABLE CONFESSION THAT HE KILLED AVIS LINNELL, WRITTEN WITH A FOUNTAIN PEN IN HIS CELL

Ind. L. Lee Esq.,
William A. Morse Esq.,
Philip R. Dunbar Esq.,
Gentlemen:
Deeply penitent for my sin and earnestly desiring, as far as in my power lies, to make atonement, I hereby confess that I am guilty of the offense of which
I stand indicted.
I am moved to this course by no induc-ment of self benefit or leniency. However as is my crime bad has not wholly abandoned me, and my conscience and manhood, however depraved and blighted, will not admit of my still further wronging a public trust, the whose pure young life I have destroyed.

Under the lashings of remorse I have suffered and am suffering the tortures of the damned. In this I find a measure of comfort.
In my mental anguish I recognize that there is still big the mercy of the Heaven, some remnant of the Divine spark of goodness still lingering with me. I earnestly wish to live only because within some prison's walls I might in some small measure redeem my sinful past. I desire some other despairing soul, and at last find you are interested to deliver this to the District Attorney or to the Judge of the Court.

3 STEAMSHIPS IMPERILLED BY HARBOR BLAZE

Big Craft Towed From Docks
as Fire Rages at Commercial Wharf.

ICE, which coated funnels and masts, bursting pipes, and hundreds of gallons of gasoline that narrowly escaped the flames, were among the perils encountered by the firemen, the police, and the crews of three vessels at a fire which caused $5,000 damage in the two-story wooden plant Jan. 6, 1912, at No. 87 Commercial wharf last night.

The fire was first discovered by John Kelling of the crew of the General Dodge, a 400-ton steamer belonging to the U. S. Government. Kelling saw flames from the lower deck and telephoned to the fire station at Salem street, shortly after midnight. At once the alarm was sounded and the firemen and police hurried to the scene.

By this time the sparks were flying high into the wind and settling in the rigging and onto the decks of the General Dodge, the General Haddock, a 300-ton steamer, and the Mary Alice, a sailing schooner. Tugs came to the rescue and towed the three boats away from the wharf.

In the basement of the building were stored 150 gallons of gasoline. This was thrown into the water by the police and firemen at great danger to themselves, as the sparks were falling all around them.

The water on the street and on the wharf was next a foot deep and froze so rapidly that some of the firemen were frozen fast to the ground and had to be helped out in order to get away. Every fireman was a solid coating of ice within a short time.

Main, Lowell, Mass.

Cunningham Et Als. Had Patriotic Dads

True, the Dads Aren't Running for Office, But Give the Boys Time.

A gentleman who looked like a Democrat indulged around to the general office in the old test right to call attention to certain side issues of this campaign which have two long been neglected. What was on the gentleman's mind was this:

Owen A. Cunningham, Democratic candidate for the City Council, is one of a family of twelve children.

Charles F. R. O'Brien of Jamaica Plain, also a Democratic candidate for the Council, is one of eleven children.

Edward D. Collins of South Boston, the man said, is one of twelve.

Total, 25.

When it was pointed out to the gentleman who looked like a Democrat that it is Cunningham and O'Brien and Collins who are candidates in Tuesday's election—and not their dads—the gentleman who looked like a Democrat became somewhat relieved.

He said, and he said, said he:

"Mr. Cunningham and Mr. O'Brien are unfortunates of less than six months' standing."

SAW WASHINGTON'S FACE.

Dying Man Viewed First American President in His Casket.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 6.—John Lane, the last man living who saw George Washington's face, is dying at his home on 1st street, this city, of paralysis and old age. Mr. Lane was only a small boy when the body of Washington was moved from the old tomb at Mount Vernon to its present resting place near the historic mansion. During the removal the casket was shown to the boy, Lane, who lifted up to look at the wonderfully preserved features of the first American president.

FIRST FROSTBITE.

South Boston Man at Hospital With Feet Nipped.

The first hospital case of frostbite for the winter and the New Year, as well as the last of Patrick A. Carney of No. 31 Blackwood street, South End. He was taken to the City Hospital last night with both feet frozen.

CRUISER DISABLED IN GALE, TWO MEN LOST

Salem's Life Boats Swept Away; Forced to Return to Hampton Roads.

NORFOLK, Va., Jan. 6.—With all of her life boats gone, her decks damaged and two members of her crew washed overboard, the scout cruiser Stead, which left Hampton Roads several days ago for Cuba, is creeping back to Hampton Roads, convoyed by the cruiser Birmingham and other ships of the Fifth Division of the Atlantic fleet.

The Stead with other ships of the fleet ran into a sixty-mile northwest gale 600 miles down the coast last night, and was badly damaged. Taylor Baggett, an elderly seaman of Bell Sea, Va., and Herman Goldstein, a seaman of New York, were washed overboard while endeavoring to strap down movable things on the deck of the cruiser. It is reported that sixteen other members of the crew were injured.

Lifelines and davits of the cruiser were washed away by the high seas, the boat over the vessel. The water from it as washed her decks and the cruiser is covered with ice from stem to stern.

RECEPTION TO BISHOP.

It Will Be Tendered the Rt. Rev. Michael Power To-night.

A reception in honor of the Rt. Rev. Michael Power, D. D., Catholic Bishop of Newfoundland, who is visiting friends in Boston, will be held this evening in Convent Hall, North Boston. The promoters of the reception are men and women who formerly resided in Newfoundland. Bishop Power will deliver an address. He is one of the youngest prelates in the Catholic world, being but thirty-five.

NEW MEXICO A STATE.

Proclamation Is Signed by President Taft.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 6.—At 1:30 o'clock today President Taft signed the proclamation admitting New Mexico to the Union as a State. This act, as was pointed out by the secretary of the new State, will bring the number of States to 48.

HERE IS THE COMPLETE TEXT OF RICHESON'S CONFESSION

The following is the transcript of the Rev. C. V. T. Richeson's confession, signed and delivered to Attorney Morse:

Boston, January 3, 1912.

John L. Lee, Esq.,
William A. Morse, Esq.,
Philip R. Dunbar, Esq.,
Gentlemen—Deeply penitent for my sin, and earnestly desiring, as far as in my power lies, to make atonement, I hereby confess that I am guilty of the offense of which I stand indicted.

I am moved to this course by no inducement of self-benefit or leniency.

Heinous as is my crime, God has not wholly abandoned me, and my conscience and manhood, however depraved and blighted, will not admit of my still further wronging by a public trial her whose pure young life I have destroyed.

Under the lashings of remorse I have suffered and am suffering the tortures of the damned. In this I find a measure of comfort.

In my mental anguish I recognize that there is still, by the mercy of the Master, some remnant of the divine spark of goodness still lingering with me.

I could wish to live only because within some prison's walls I might, in some small measure, redeem my sinful past, help some other despairing soul and, at last, find favor with my God.

You are instructed to deliver this to the District Attorney or to the judges of the court.

Sincerely yours,
CLARENCE V. T. RICHESON.

His Only Chance to Escape Electric Chair Is Clemency of Governor Foss and Council

LETTER SENT BY RICHESON TO HIS CHURCH, PROTESTING INNOCENCE

The following letter was sent by Rev. Mr. Richeson to the clerk of his church on November 21:

CHARLES F. CUMMINGS, Clerk Immanuel Baptist Church, 15 Marlboro street, Belmont, Mass.:
My Dear Sir—I beg to herewith tender my resignation as pastor of Immanuel Church.

Strong in the consciousness of my innocence and firmly persuaded that God in His own good time will lift this burden from me, I nevertheless feel that I should not permit the shadow thrown across my life to darken the religious welfare of my church and of its people, whom I love.

I, therefore, deem it my duty to place the church in a position to select my successor.

With my heartfelt thanks for the many kindnesses shown me by each and all of the members of my church, I am, sincerely yours, (Signed) CLARENCE V. T. RICHESON.

The Rev. Mr. Richeson was identified by the Cambridge dealer from whom he had bought the candy. Just as this was the one connecting link between Richeson and the candy, the candy was the famous Cambridge kidnap the one connecting link between Charles L. Tucker and Abel Page, whom he stabbed to death. Thomas D. Lavelle, the Assistant District Attorney who worked on the Richeson case with District Attorney Feltner, was asked last night what, in view of Richeson's confession, a copy of which was in the possession of his office, would be the next move in the great murder case.

"Guilty in First Degree."

"Richeson will be brought into the Superior Criminal Court on Monday," he replied, "and he will change his plea."

"What plea will he make?"

"He will plead guilty to murder in the first degree; otherwise we will go ahead with the trial just as before and use the confession as evidence against him."

"Will it be necessary to call any witnesses?"

"No, we will not need any witnesses, and we shall not wait any."

"What will be the procedure after he has pleaded guilty to murder in the first degree?"

"We shall move for sentence at once."

the Charles Street Jail. He had asked his counsel on Wednesday to be allowed to make it, but they feared that his mental condition was such that they should not permit it.

It became known yesterday, after the confessions had been made public, that Richeson met Avis Linnell by appointment on the afternoon of Saturday, October 14, that they took a walk to the Fenway and that while they were together Richeson gave her some candy that he had bought in Cambridge and a capsule, which contained granules of potassium, saying to her: "Take this and it will help you."

Candy Can Connecting Link.

The one thing that placed Richeson and Avis Linnell together on the fatal Saturday was the little glass candy which connected the stick candy that Richeson bought for fifteen cents in the candy shop of F. A. Trullinger, No. 714 Massachusetts avenue, Cambridge. After her walk with Richeson, she showed the candy to Miss Lottelle Ziegler, her cousin at the Young Women's Christian Association, telling her that her friend said it to her.

The candy was afterward found in the room of Avis Linnell, and identified by the Cambridge dealer from whom he had bought the candy. Just as this was the one connecting link between Richeson and the candy, the candy was the famous Cambridge kidnap the one connecting link between Charles L. Tucker and Abel Page, whom he stabbed to death. Thomas D. Lavelle, the Assistant District Attorney who worked on the Richeson case with District Attorney Feltner, was asked last night what, in view of Richeson's confession, a copy of which was in the possession of his office, would be the next move in the great murder case.

JOPPER CLAM FLATS BEING WASHED AWAY

NEWBURYPORT, Jan. 6.—Because of the effects of the tide and the location of the flats at the mouth of the Merrimack River, the Jopper clam flats, comprising some 100 acres lying between the South End of the city and the tidal flats, are being washed away. This is the result of a large number of boats and small craft, which are constantly coming and going, and the effect of the tide. The flats are being washed away at the rate of about 100 feet a year, and it is estimated that in ten years, will be washed out of existence.

Keeping Up Business Volume With Only Part of a Store

No one knows just how much can be crowded into a minute. Each year quickens the pace, makes new speed records. We are going to rebuild our corner store according to this 20th Century pace, and while our new corner store is being built

We are going to make part of a store work like a whole one

You'll find only part of our building doing business, it is true, for the builders are tearing down the corner section, but even if stocks are more crowded and the aisle space somewhat less, there's all the more reason why we should redouble our energies and offer more than ever

Wonderful buying incentives that will bring you to Gilchrist's

STATE AID TO BUILD HOMES FOR THE POOR

Mellen's Homestead Plan, Called Socialistic When Born, Gets "O. K."

The Massachusetts Homestead Commission was not only reported to the Legislature to-morrow in favor of the Commonwealth assuming a limited liability for the construction of a whole plan, but what is even more significant to those familiar with the homestead movement in this State, the commission will report unanimously.

The plan of the bill introduced in the commission's report is that the Homestead Commission may borrow money from the State to buy land and build homes which are to be sold, leased or rented to wage-earners who shall be required to invest fifty cents in stock certificates in the bonds of the Commonwealth.

The bill will give the commission authority to regulate the building. The money to be loaned by the Commonwealth for establishing this homestead plan shall come from consolidated deposits in the savings banks.

It strikes the commission as very fitting that the funds accumulated by collecting money in former years should thus go toward aiding workers in this great movement.

Some of the features of the bill are: That the State build plenty of homes in the suburbs for wage-earners now forced to live in tenement sections was legislation passed in 1906.

When he launched the proposition three years ago he was practically laughed out of court. It was called "socialistic" and "un-American." It was called "un-American" and "un-American."

Plan Sound, Says Commission.
The commission has reported the plan that Mr. Mellen favored and reported it unanimously.

The commission does not confine itself to merely suggesting. It may go further, it may go further, it may go further.

What Commission Will Propose.
The Homestead Commission was appointed only last week. It organized in September and held three meetings.

Must Buy Shares of Stock.
The Commission may borrow money from the Commonwealth or from the State and may issue certificates representing the shares of stock.

PHILIPS OUT OF DEATH CELL.
In Another Part of the Jail Pending Action by Council.

Killed N. Phelps, the condemned murderer, now awaiting execution at the State Prison, was removed from the death cell.

Walter E. Flinders at the head of the great Studebaker Corporation, builders of E-M-F and Flinders cars, believes that business is something more than mere selling and delivering goods.

JACKSON DAY DINNER WILL NOT BE A RIOT

Dr. Coughlin Says Some Will Be Disappointed — Troops Leave for Washington.

Just as the New England troops were getting out of the South station last night for Washington and to-morrow night for the Jackson day dinner of the National Democracy, Dr. W. C. Coughlin of Fall River, national executive committee for Massachusetts, offered to let the Klan (Klans) of the Boston & Suburban State troops to the contrary notwithstanding, to stand with the troops.

Among the officers will be Norman H. Mack, Governor Wilson, Senator Fernald, Governor Wilson, Senator Fernald, Governor Wilson, Senator Fernald.

BOSTON POLICE VAN AND ENGINE COLLIDE

The Van Overturns, but the Woman Inside Escapes Serious Injury.

The blue police van for women, containing two women prisoners, was rolled back up the street, across all its collisions with a car, and finally, at Great street in the Theatre district last night.

The van, which had been stuck in traffic, was jammed about prodigiously but escaped injury, barring a fright that sent her passengers fleeing from the rear door.

A driver, of the van, perceived a cat running across the road, and he swerved, damaged it.

The cat leaped back off alarmingly on its back with feet pointing toward the rear wheel.

The woman prisoner, who was sitting without apparently a scratch but suffering from shock, was taken to the hospital.

The second escape from women jailers. The garage was considered wonderful.

DEMOCRATS GO AFTER G. G. A., P. S. A. & C. M. L.

Alphabetical Reform is Hammered in Faneuil Hall by All the Candidates.

CAMPAIGN IS NEARLY OVER
Judge Merritt Severe; Sheehan Calls School Board Autocratic and Domineering.

THE Public School Association, the parent School Board, and Merritt, the candidates for the Democratic nomination for city council, are all in the campaign in Faneuil Hall last night.

There is a feeling, one of the Democratic candidates for city council, among the citizens of the city, that the Democratic candidates for the School Board, the parent School Board, and Merritt, the candidates for the Democratic nomination for city council, are all in the campaign in Faneuil Hall last night.

Charles J. P. O'Brien, candidate for the Democratic nomination for city council, is the only one of the Democratic candidates for the School Board, the parent School Board, and Merritt, the candidates for the Democratic nomination for city council, who is in the campaign in Faneuil Hall last night.

TIGERS DEFEAT DARTMOUTH IN EASY FASHION AT ARENA

Princeton Also Hangs Up Record for Goals Scored on Rank. Baker, Man Who Beat Green on Gridiron, Again Proves Hoodoo for Dartmouth Players

By TED PARKE.

The Intercollegiate Hockey League season was opened at the Arena last evening in a rather festive manner when the Tigers were told a huge line out of the Dartmouth seven to the tune of 16 to 0 and fortuitously established a new record for goals tally in the league.

The tale of the carnage is a sad one to relate, and from start to finish it was very evident that the White Mountain boys were no match for their opponents from the mosquito ridden regions of Jersey.

To make things worse, the man who did the talking to Dartmouth, and who made it possible for the best beating to come about, was Baker, the man who kicked the queer goal, and the best Dartmouth player in the game.

Only last night his passing was anything but a failure, and he was the best individual, more perhaps than the others, in the arena to put it vernacularly.

He was a sure thing.

As the score tells the game was very one-sided and as a result soon became very uninteresting. Judging from the look of the players, the game was a very easy one to win for the Tigers.

The game was a very easy one to win for the Tigers.

Green Never in Running.

Toward the end every one was sure that, just out of courtesy, to the Green would let the Green rally up and get to act as a team but no such thing happened. The Green never got a shot on goal.

Baker Again a Hero.

There was a good solid crowd present and although there were very few shots on goal, the game was a very interesting one. The game was a very interesting one.

Buy High for Goal Toss.

Dartmouth started out to their loss, but it soon became apparent that the goal of the work of the Green was to fail on the goal.

Tigers Scored at Will.

PIERCE-ARROW CARS

SIX-SIXTY-SIX SUBURBAN

Unless you look closely at the types of Pierce-Arrow Cars to be seen at the Madison Square Garden, N. Y., this week, you will not be able to make a just comparison of the progress in motor car designing in the past twelve months. Ten years of constant growth, ten years of steady industrial progress, could not have been accomplished unless there had been uninterrupted loyalty to a guiding business principle. This principle is simply to make the highest grade motor car that money and brains can produce.

R.H. WHITE @ Bargain Basement

We Have Seen Many Wonderful Bargains in Our Bargain Basement But Never Any Like This

THE GREATEST BARGAIN YET!

SEASON'S MOST REMARKABLE VALUES IN

Women's and Misses' Suits & Coats At a Tremendous Sacrifice

MANY OF THESE SUITS AND COATS WILL BE SOLD

At Less Than One-Third of Their Real Values

Several prominent New York manufacturers' surplus stocks purchased by us during the past week. Every coat and suit in this sale is ABSOLUTELY NEW made within the past month. Not old passe styles or job lots. At a price, too, of less than the cost of the materials alone. Even if you do not need a suit or coat at the present time it will pay you to buy one for the next Fall or Winter season.

SALE STARTS MONDAY MORNING AT 8.30 A.M., WITH EXTRA SALES PEOPLE AND EXTRA SPACE, and knowing as we do the extraordinary values offered, we advise early shopping to avoid disappointment in the rush which is bound to come before the day is over.

GREAT CHURCH WELCOME FOR THE CARDINAL

K. of C. Fourth Degree Men to Escort Prelate at Thanksgiving Mass.

ELABORATE PLANS MADE
Committee Completing Details for Unparalleled Reception and Banquet.

THE Mass of Thanksgiving is to be sung at the cathedral at twelve o'clock on Sunday. It will be the most splendid religious ceremony in the history of New England.

With Bishop Joseph G. Anderson as the directing spirit, all the preliminary details are being arranged on a scale so complete that everything will proceed on that day with the smoothness and precision of clockwork.

When the procession of prelates and clergy enters from the vestry it will meet near the altar of the blessed Sacrament by another procession of the K. of C. This will consist of some two hundred Knights of Columbus chapter 1, 2, 3, 4, 5, 6, 7, 8, 9, 10, 11, 12, 13, 14, 15, 16, 17, 18, 19, 20, 21, 22, 23, 24, 25, 26, 27, 28, 29, 30, 31, 32, 33, 34, 35, 36, 37, 38, 39, 40, 41, 42, 43, 44, 45, 46, 47, 48, 49, 50, 51, 52, 53, 54, 55, 56, 57, 58, 59, 60, 61, 62, 63, 64, 65, 66, 67, 68, 69, 70, 71, 72, 73, 74, 75, 76, 77, 78, 79, 80, 81, 82, 83, 84, 85, 86, 87, 88, 89, 90, 91, 92, 93, 94, 95, 96, 97, 98, 99, 100, 101, 102, 103, 104, 105, 106, 107, 108, 109, 110, 111, 112, 113, 114, 115, 116, 117, 118, 119, 120, 121, 122, 123, 124, 125, 126, 127, 128, 129, 130, 131, 132, 133, 134, 135, 136, 137, 138, 139, 140, 141, 142, 143, 144, 145, 146, 147, 148, 149, 150, 151, 152, 153, 154, 155, 156, 157, 158, 159, 160, 161, 162, 163, 164, 165, 166, 167, 168, 169, 170, 171, 172, 173, 174, 175, 176, 177, 178, 179, 180, 181, 182, 183, 184, 185, 186, 187, 188, 189, 190, 191, 192, 193, 194, 195, 196, 197, 198, 199, 200, 201, 202, 203, 204, 205, 206, 207, 208, 209, 210, 211, 212, 213, 214, 215, 216, 217, 218, 219, 220, 221, 222, 223, 224, 225, 226, 227, 228, 229, 230, 231, 232, 233, 234, 235, 236, 237, 238, 239, 240, 241, 242, 243, 244, 245, 246, 247, 248, 249, 250, 251, 252, 253, 254, 255, 256, 257, 258, 259, 260, 261, 262, 263, 264, 265, 266, 267, 268, 269, 270, 271, 272, 273, 274, 275, 276, 277, 278, 279, 280, 281, 282, 283, 284, 285, 286, 287, 288, 289, 290, 291, 292, 293, 294, 295, 296, 297, 298, 299, 300, 301, 302, 303, 304, 305, 306, 307, 308, 309, 310, 311, 312, 313, 314, 315, 316, 317, 318, 319, 320, 321, 322, 323, 324, 325, 326, 327, 328, 329, 330, 331, 332, 333, 334, 335, 336, 337, 338, 339, 340, 341, 342, 343, 344, 345, 346, 347, 348, 349, 350, 351, 352, 353, 354, 355, 356, 357, 358, 359, 360, 361, 362, 363, 364, 365, 366, 367, 368, 369, 370, 371, 372, 373, 374, 375, 376, 377, 378, 379, 380, 381, 382, 383, 384, 385, 386, 387, 388, 389, 390, 391, 392, 393, 394, 395, 396, 397, 398, 399, 400, 401, 402, 403, 404, 405, 406, 407, 408, 409, 410, 411, 412, 413, 414, 415, 416, 417, 418, 419, 420, 421, 422, 423, 424, 425, 426, 427, 428, 429, 430, 431, 432, 433, 434, 435, 436, 437, 438, 439, 440, 441, 442, 443, 444, 445, 446, 447, 448, 449, 450, 451, 452, 453, 454, 455, 456, 457, 458, 459, 460, 461, 462, 463, 464, 465, 466, 467, 468, 469, 470, 471, 472, 473, 474, 475, 476, 477, 478, 479, 480, 481, 482, 483, 484, 485, 486, 487, 488, 489, 490, 491, 492, 493, 494, 495, 496, 497, 498, 499, 500, 501, 502, 503, 504, 505, 506, 507, 508, 509, 510, 511, 512, 513, 514, 515, 516, 517, 518, 519, 520, 521, 522, 523, 524, 525, 526, 527, 528, 529, 530, 531, 532, 533, 534, 535, 536, 537, 538, 539, 540, 541, 542, 543, 544, 545, 546, 547, 548, 549, 550, 551, 552, 553, 554, 555, 556, 557, 558, 559, 560, 561, 562, 563, 564, 565, 566, 567, 568, 569, 570, 571, 572, 573, 574, 575, 576, 577, 578, 579, 580, 581, 582, 583, 584, 585, 586, 587, 588, 589, 590, 591, 592, 593, 594, 595, 596, 597, 598, 599, 600, 601, 602, 603, 604, 605, 606, 607, 608, 609, 610, 611, 612, 613, 614, 615, 616, 617, 618, 619, 620, 621, 622, 623, 624, 625, 626, 627, 628, 629, 630, 631, 632, 633, 634, 635, 636, 637, 638, 639, 640, 641, 642, 643, 644, 645, 646, 647, 648, 649, 650, 651, 652, 653, 654, 655, 656, 657, 658, 659, 660, 661, 662, 663, 664, 665, 666, 667, 668, 669, 670, 671, 672, 673, 674, 675, 676, 677, 678, 679, 680, 681, 682, 683, 684, 685, 686, 687, 688, 689, 690, 691, 692, 693, 694, 695, 696, 697, 698, 699, 700, 701, 702, 703, 704, 705, 706, 707, 708, 709, 710, 711, 712, 713, 714, 715, 716, 717, 718, 719, 720, 721, 722, 723, 724, 725, 726, 727, 728, 729, 730, 731, 732, 733, 734, 735, 736, 737, 738, 739, 740, 741, 742, 743, 744, 745, 746, 747, 748, 749, 750, 751, 752, 753, 754, 755, 756, 757, 758, 759, 760, 761, 762, 763, 764, 765, 766, 767, 768, 769, 770, 771, 772, 773, 774, 775, 776, 777, 778, 779, 780, 781, 782, 783, 784, 785, 786, 787, 788, 789, 790, 791, 792, 793, 794, 795, 796, 797, 798, 799, 800, 801, 802, 803, 804, 805, 806, 807, 808, 809, 810, 811, 812, 813, 814, 815, 816, 817, 818, 819, 820, 821, 822, 823, 824, 825, 826, 827, 828, 829, 830, 831, 832, 833, 834, 835, 836, 837, 838, 839, 840, 841, 842, 843, 844, 845, 846, 847, 848, 849, 850, 851, 852, 853, 854, 855, 856, 857, 858, 859, 860, 861, 862, 863, 864, 865, 866, 867, 868, 869, 870, 871, 872, 873, 874, 875, 876, 877, 878, 879, 880, 881, 882, 883, 884, 885, 886, 887, 888, 889, 890, 891, 892, 893, 894, 895, 896, 897, 898, 899, 900, 901, 902, 903, 904, 905, 906, 907, 908, 909, 910, 911, 912, 913, 914, 915, 916, 917, 918, 919, 920, 921, 922, 923, 924, 925, 926, 927, 928, 929, 930, 931, 932, 933, 934, 935, 936, 937, 938, 939, 940, 941, 942, 943, 944, 945, 946, 947, 948, 949, 950, 951, 952, 953, 954, 955, 956, 957, 958, 959, 960, 961, 962, 963, 964, 965, 966, 967, 968, 969, 970, 971, 972, 973, 974, 975, 976, 977, 978, 979, 980, 981, 982, 983, 984, 985, 986, 987, 988, 989, 990, 991, 992, 993, 994, 995, 996, 997, 998, 999, 1000.

TRAVELER OF LEAP YEAR GIRLS

CONTEMPT OF COURT

Prize Is Offered First Couple Engaged or Married on Lady's Proposal.

District Attorney Complains Before Judge Anderson of Article on Richeson.

He, Dan Cupid!

Is all this talk you have given for the past few days about making Leap Year proposals just a bluff?

Or is it founded on fact?

Patrol, you are hereby ordered to stop your hand of the fortune-telling game.

It is time for a showdown.

Therefore, the ANCEYAN offers a cash prize of $25 to the first couple engaged or married this year, who confess that the girl took advantage of Leap Year and proposed.

Now, Mr. D. Cupid, produce.

This is Leap Year—March 1st, 1912. It is time for a showdown.

THOUSANDS of AMERICAN readers secured one or more copies of these books the first day. Each and every one was more than delighted with the books, and expressions of commendation of the AMERICAN'S enterprise were many. They are truly remarkable and unique books. More information is contained in them than in any other three books in the world. You will marvel that they could ever be produced for the small sum the AMERICAN offers them for.

SEEKING LAWS TO IMPROVE HEALTH

The State Board of Health, in a special report to the Legislature, recommends drastic legislation to prevent the sale of foodstuffs unfit for human consumption. It asks that the Legislature pass a permit law for the sale of foodstuffs within the State, so that the State health authorities can keep a check on the foodstuffs coming into the State from without and also the so-called foreign-made foodstuffs, such as under the retail business except as provided by the law. The law should require the foodstuffs to be from the farm, such as apples, and less than six months old.

PIANOS AND MUSICAL INSTRUMENTS. CLEARANCE SALE BEFORE STOCK TAKING

SALES. Going on every day. We must reduce our stock before Feb. 1, 1912. Every piano on our great selling floor is a bargain. Lots of them marked below cost. Hardly a day passes but some woman remarks, "How can you sell these excellent pianos for such low prices? It is really wonderful." The reason is we do not have to rely on this end of our business entirely for profits, and our expenses are small, and we have plenty of money to take advantage of the dealer who is forced to go under from outside pressure. Make it a point to call and see us. You'll be the gainer.

FIRST PRIZE GOES TO CALIFORNIA COTTON

Best Product of the United States in the World of Labor

NEW YORK, Jan. 6.—The first prize in the world of labor contest, held at the California Cotton Exposition, has been awarded to the California Cotton. The prize was given to the California Cotton for its superior quality and for its ability to withstand the most severe tests.

100,000 Acres of Land. The California Cotton is grown on 100,000 acres of land in California. The land is fertile and the climate is ideal for the growth of cotton. The California Cotton is the best product of the United States in the world of labor.

Yield Remarkable, Too. The yield of the California Cotton is remarkable. It is the highest yield of any cotton in the world. The California Cotton is the best product of the United States in the world of labor.

No Storms, No Frost. The California Cotton is grown in a region where there are no storms and no frost. This is the reason why the California Cotton is the best product of the United States in the world of labor.

The Character of the House Has Much to Do With the Bargains

Prices in themselves, unless backed by goods of known quality, signify little. The coming of these Kennedy Stores to Boston introduced a new era in progressive retailing, involving merchandise of unquestioned merit, greater value-giving, a more sincere effort to please, and advertising in which neither exaggeration nor misrepresentation is ever allowed to appear.

The News of This Live Store's Mark Down Sale Has Spread to the Farthest Corners of New England

Bringing such a crowd of eager buyers as has seldom, if ever responded to a similar announcement in the Boston papers.

This demonstration of public confidence in our word and our merchandise is well merited. This great store deals in only the finest all-wool clothing and the highest grade of furnishings, which we sell in season and out, at an average of 25% less than others can afford to ask for equal qualities.

We never carry goods over from one season to another. Everything is sold during the season for which it was made. Any man who needs anything at all to wear can make this week and buy it for less than he would expect to pay. The reductions we quote are from former selling prices and positively authentic.

A Little Out of the Way—But It Pays to Walk

California's Great Panama Canal Celebration.

THE
MEMORIAL MONUMENT DESIGNED BY
H. S. FULTON

GOLDEN GATE
PARK WHERE THE GRAND
EXPOSITION WILL BE HELD

THE United States will celebrate the opening of the Panama Canal with the greatest exposition in history—the Panama-Pacific International Exposition—in San Francisco in 1915. The nations of the world will join with America in the celebration. Every civilized nation of the globe and every country within the sweep of both shores of the Pacific Ocean will be represented at the Panama-Pacific Exposition by exhibits that will surpass in size, quality and beauty anything yet seen at an international exposition.

Plans for the exposition are already under way. The site has been selected. Architects are engaged upon the plans for the buildings. President Taft has turned first earth at the ground-breaking ceremonies. California has appropriated more than twenty-two millions of dollars as its contribution to the nation's great fête. This sum is not more than one-fourth of the amount which will be expended upon the exposition.

The Panama-Pacific International Exposition is being undertaken upon a great scale of world-education and interest. San Francisco is preparing the local setting. The whole West is preparing to meet the standards of a great national celebration. The nations of the world, on account of their interest in the Panama Canal—America's latest gift to civilization—are prepared to participate liberally in the exposition at which America will formally celebrate the opening of the canal.

San Francisco, as hostess of the nation, will entertain the world at this congress of nations, a splendid commemorative celebration, which will not only include the finest features of all former world's expositions, but also in its picturesque atmosphere of the Far West, of the Orient and of all the countries bordering upon the Pacific Ocean, will have a special attraction and originality of its own.

The completion of the canal will mark a supreme epoch in the lives of the nations bordering the Pacific. The visitor will see most appropriately at the exposition the greatest assemblage of strange tribes and peoples of Pacific Ocean countries ever gathered together. China, Japan, the Philippines, India and other Oriental lands will join in parades that will rival the Indian Durbar in magnificence and surpass the Durbar in the number of nations represented. Merry old Indian potlaches will be revived.

The site of the exposition is peculiarly suited to a great maritime celebration. All San Francisco itself will be adorned in harmony with the celebration. A programme of events of international interest and importance, opening with the entrance into San Francisco Bay of a composite fleet of the battleships of the navies of the world, will afford the visitors an opportunity for studying the latest naval achievements. A great many countries never before represented at a world's exposition will be able to lay their displays from ocean-going vessels directly upon the exposition grounds.

San Francisco will be a magic city when the exposition opens. Market street and Van Ness avenue, its two principal thoroughfares, will be adorned with shining white columns, decorated with flags of the nations and bunting, and at night brilliant with festoons of electrical displays. At intervals above these streets will pass arcades, permitting the visitor to cross from one side of the street to the other. At the ferry building, the main entrance to San Francisco, will be a grand court of honor. At the junction of Market street and Van Ness avenue, which, running from the bay, meet in a V in the heart of the city, will be the architectural civic centre. Here will be built a great auditorium to house conventions during the exposition. The parks and waterfront of San Francisco will be improved at an expenditure of millions of dollars, since millions of dollars having been voted for water front improvement alone.

Telegraph Hill, towering 287 feet above the waterfront, will be terraced and surmounted by the tallest wireless tower that can be constructed. In the old days the dropping of a ball from the top of a flagpole on Telegraph Hill signalled the approach of a ship from around the Horn. From the wireless tower messages will be flashed to vessels passing through the Panama Canal, the world's new short cut. Lincoln Park, rising above the Golden Gate, will be surmounted by a huge commemorative statue welcoming ships to the Pacific coast. Across the Golden Gate will be hung a chain of incandescent lights.

The site of the exposition, chosen after months of deliberation, commands the scenic features of harbor and hills that give San Francisco its chief beauty. The two principal points will be at Harbor View and in Golden Gate Park. Harbor View forms a crescent on San Francisco Bay midway between the ferry building, the principal entrance to San Francisco, and the Golden Gate. The exposition grounds of the Harbor View site, comprising almost six hundred acres, lie slightly above

The Wandering Jew "Appears" Again.

The Shoemaker Who Insulted Our Saviour, and Was Doomed to Wander About Earth Until the Second Coming, Now "Reported" From an Oasis in War-Stricken Tripoli.

Dore's Drawing of "The Curse Upon Ahasuerus." ("Thou shalt wander on the earth until I come again.")

Justave Dore's Wierd Picture of "The Wandering Jew." ("Wandering ever onward, undying—an object of wonder to those who encounter him."—From the legend of "The Wandering Jew.")

THERE comes through private channels from Tripoli a strange story of an old man, found by the Italians in a small oasis, where, in a village known as Hopta, he was living with the natives as an apparently an honored guest and treated by them with much awe and reverence.

The officer in command of the detachment of Italian troops which took possession of the oasis, having got a report of the existence of a Jew, he was sent to find him, though and inclined to be skeptical, asked questions readily enough.

At first some talkative Arab had told him that he had seen a Jew in the oasis, and that he was a very old man, almost as old as the world.

When the officer had reached the oasis, he found a small village of about twenty huts, and a few people, who were all of the same race and color.

But the officer, who was a man of a very different type, was not at all surprised to find that the man was a Jew.

He was a very old man, almost as old as the world, and he was a very strange man, and he was a very interesting man.

whether I know not at this moment. The officer, much struck by these remarkable statements, continued to question the old man, who said that he had been present at the crucifixion of Jesus, and that he had lived ever since, traveling through many lands.

He said that he had seen the Saviour, and that he had been present at the crucifixion of Jesus, and that he had lived ever since, traveling through many lands.

tians and most Mohammedans pay to anything connected with the Saviour—even when the connection is so discreditable as that of Ahasuerus. Most times, however, they have been as the legendary wanderer for the actual goods they could get from him.

At the beginning of the eighteenth century an old man, of a description altogether similar, was seen in England and interviewed, as we would say in these days, by a great many people. He gave an account of the crucifixion of Jesus, and of the life of the Saviour.

He said that he had seen the Saviour, and that he had been present at the crucifixion of Jesus, and that he had lived ever since, traveling through many lands.

seemed to be equally familiar, and one Englishman of learning talked with him in Arabic. According to his own account, he had been in Rome when Nero set fire to the city. He had never met a Jew, who refused to allow the Saviour to drink out of his cup, and he had never seen the Saviour.

He was seen in Paris in 1664 and in 1735 in Madrid. But the most striking and definite account of him was given by Dr. P. de la Haye, in his book of 1735, in which he said that he had seen the Saviour, and that he had been present at the crucifixion of Jesus, and that he had lived ever since, traveling through many lands.

There is certainly no mention of the story of the Wandering Jew in the Bible. The name of the Wandering Jew was first mentioned in a book of 1228, in which the name of the Wandering Jew was given as Ahasuerus, but Carpathian, and he was said to be the son of the Lord.

When this was concluded the permit of burial was given and my wife was conveyed to Paris, where she lies in the vault where my mother lies—something I am too late—as after the war she died in August when three weeks before I was born—I go to her grave every day. I tell you I'm not very sorry to have lost her, I tell you that in fact she had no great interest in me, a series of nervous collapse which I could not bear, and really happened and what exactly were the various measures taken. When the reporters from Paris arrived I was still unable to receive visits, a fact

THE "hows of your year" can take care of themselves, but how about the frost bites of the future? In other words, with a steadily diminishing supply, from what sources will furs be obtained to keep my lady warm, and who will keep pretty nose from getting red?

In the opinion of the Government Biological Survey, the principal source of supplies for the future will be supplied by domesticated animals. The points of view of the world's greatest fur traders are not far from the Government's, and the fact that during the past calendar year, 1911, one million furs were sold at auction $24,111,000 obtained from this household pet of the fur trade.

Not long ago a single muskrat skin sold for $1.00, and a single beaver skin for $2.00. Today a single muskrat skin sells for $10.00, and a single beaver skin for $20.00. The reason for this is that the supply of muskrats and beavers is fast becoming exhausted.

The muskrat is a small animal, about the size of a cat, and is found in the marshes of the United States. It is a very valuable fur-bearing animal, and its fur is much sought after. The beaver is a larger animal, and is found in the forests of the United States. It is also a very valuable fur-bearing animal, and its fur is much sought after.

Domestic Furniture of Americans 200,000 Years Old

A most interesting new exhibit is to be seen in the American Museum of Natural History, Seventy-second Street and Fifth Avenue, New York. It is the exhibit of the prehistoric tools and implements of the early Americans, and is a very valuable one. The exhibit is divided into three parts: the first part shows the tools and implements of the early Americans, the second part shows the tools and implements of the middle Americans, and the third part shows the tools and implements of the late Americans. The exhibit is a very valuable one, and is well worth a visit.

American!"

I GUESS it was the hoarse yelping that upset Captain Jack Cameron's calculation in the big topknot of 192. Cameron was a true sun-god worshiper, and when the real tropic dweller gets north or south of 23° he begins to feel that he is out of his habitat. Something keeps prying at his heartstrings, and he takes a mighty lot of chances in trying to ease the strain.

That's how Captain Jack sent the Coral Queen to the bottom. We were swinging down past the mouth of the Wusung with the speed of a torpedo destroyer, and the old schooner bore her nose into Bush Island Shoal, and we lapped up a little of the Yellow Sea before a brick-bat boat beating up the Shanghai gathered us in. A deserted gulf island held more attractions for Cameron than Shanghai did at that moment, and he didn't hide his feelings. When that stretch of beach, opium smoke, incense and ten-century undisturbed dirt came out to meet us he turned his face to the southland and cursed for ten minutes without using a full point.

We weren't the sort of batch that would set Bubbling Well Road agog and start the American canon on a run to the cable office, so we stowed in the Saloon's Home while Captain Jack turned one of his optimistic stares onto the horizon. Winter was rolling down out of Siberia, and advance blizzards came slopping across the Yellow Sea in a way that made us ogie the Fates with both eyes. But the Fates had nothing in our line at that particular moment, and Cameron strained Shanghai smells with a pained look on his facial area that he didn't generally display when Destiny had him jammed against the ropes.

It was on the fourth day when the little hoop cloud blew up over the rim. We four were watching a perky little Chinese woman juggle earthenware pots with her bare feet near the Gate of Sublime Learning, when an old Chinaman with a face like a Russian war map ambled up to us and touched Cameron on the arm.

"Cappy Cameron?" he whispered.
"Right here," said Captain Jack.
"Welly good," gurgled old Parchment Dial, "you coume right longes me."

"He didn't say if Cameron would follow, but went slap-dap down the street, his old thin shanks giving him the look of a wooden-legged man as we watched him from behind. Captain Jack was suspicious of Chinamen ever since a one-eyed Chinese knifed him in Fassouli's at Freemantle, and he wanted a little more information.

Parchment Face must have travelled half a knot before he took a glance over his shoulder, and finding he didn't have a tow, he put about and came running back with a finger like a shark hook beckoning to the Captain. Cameron got interested a bit then.

"Where to, Johnnie?" he growled.

"The Chow blinked like an owl in a shop window. 'To the Street of All Joys,' he whispered.

"Huh," gurgled the Captain, who was sort of taken up with the bag on the flour-bag. "And who wants my company there?"

The Chinaman came closer and looked as important as if it was handing out information about a gilt-edged investment on Wall Street. "The Society of a Thousand Favours," he stammered; "no aksee more, no know."

Cameron bit a piece from his plug and looked up at the narrow strip of sky that showed like a bit of jagged ribbon between the shops. A southerly out of Manchuria was pounding a batch of fat clouds southward, and I guess it made him feel mad that he couldn't go in the same direction.

"I don't know your society, Mr. Confucius," he snarled, "but I'll stand on it as long as it keeps me out of the water. I'll take half-bath on my heartstrings. Say, what do you know about me?"

"You Cappy Cameron," muttered the Chinaman, "you loosen ship, loosen eblytink; you live down in Silest of Five Wude." Cameron whistled. "That's the worst of having a lead reputation," he growled. "This mob have got a bit of wily on hand, and they think I'm the pipkin to turn the trick. Go ahead, Thin Shanks, curse you, and I'll see what your bosses want Jack Cameron for."

The yellow anemist set off at a sixteen-knot gait, and we trailed behind like a crowd of punts hooked to a tugboat. He steamed up little streets where the smells were that cunning they never went over the housetops lest a blizzard would yank them out to sea, and we hustled some to keep up.

The door opened at last, and we dived into a wave of incense smoke that was as thick as a Channel fog, and when we got our bearings we were anchored in front of a little table where a fantail and goldfish was splashing round in a globe of dirty water and pretending that it liked the game. Captain Jack glared round for the society, and old Parchment Face told us that a section of the association would be on tap "pretty damn quick." Mickey started to whistle and Driscoll hummed a verse of "The Ring of the Moon."

"These yellor dills beat me," whispered Driscoll. "They're as cunning as old Doctor Brady of Tupperware, an' I ain't be as clever. He could write well water in bog Latin on a slip of paper and make you pay five shillings for it."

A fat Chinaman wearing a pair of horn-rimmed goggles that looked as big as bicycle wheels came from behind a screen and bowed like a Muncy dog when he saw Cameron. Captain

Jack nodded back carelessly. Shanghai smells were playing the 12 and with his manner, and the yellow silk kimonos that Goggles covered himself in didn't stir him ten cents. That was in-wont past with Jack Cameron. Being an American, he didn't tap to look if the man was a mandarin of the Yellow Button or a 12 most se'er, and it upset his schemes sometimes.

"What's the trouble?" he snapped.
Goggles ran a smile over his face and waddled up close.

"No trouble, Cappy Cameron," he gurgled. "No trouble. Ahlytink welly nice. We wanten first mate Australian ship, plenty berth, plenty money. What say, twenty-five, thirty pound like same one month, plenty damn good?"

"He pulled like a fresh caught barracotta and turned the bicycle wheel full on Cameron.

"Huh," gurgled Captain Jack. "What port?"

"Salien Newcastle," gurgled Goggles. "Velly nice ship, nic apper, eblytink nice."

"Oh, sure," muttered Cameron. "It couldn't be otherwise with your fingers in the pie." Then he turned to us and added:

"There's a nigger in this woodpile, but I want to get out of this town. It looks as if I'm the attraction, so if you three want to ship."

"Do we?" laughed Driscoll. "Ask the emperor in the silk petticoats if he'll have us."

"We shippem all," said Goggles, blowing out his chest like a Redman bull on a feast day, when Cameron asked him "Velly pleased to shipe you, Cappy Cameron. Velly pleased, welly happy."

The Captain mumbled something about a pirate ship when Goggles turned his back then he asked him where the steamer was. The moment we got aboard, the old tramp looked a first-class criminal on her own, and when we got the lay of the things we found that outside the skipper, an American chief engineer, a Portuguese second, and a mate who said he was Swedish, but who looked like a Malay, there wasn't a white man on the boat.

Mackey was cursing as we hunted for a spot away from the back and the ladder, but when Driscoll stumbled down the ladder, "Mother of N's!" he cried, "We've got a Chinese menagerie aboard."

"What is it?" growled Mackey.

"What is it?" repeated Driscoll. "Faith, you may well ask. We've got half the population of China pent up between decks, and if you find the count wrong I'll admit that I am a Papuan and tattoo myself for the rest of me days."

Driscoll was right. We bumped into Cameron as we staggered across the deck, and he was delivering his sorrow to the wind.

"Eight hundred stinking Chinamen!"

"Eight hundred stinking Chinamen!" he growled, addressing a black cloud that was smothering us in like the wrath of God.

"Eight hundred stinking Chinamen!" an old scow that's fitted out like a trepan proa; a drunken skipper, and the biggest squall that the Arctic can hatch catching up to us every minute.

And that squall came, it swiped the Black Princess on the stem and jelled at thousand yells out of the hatch below. It threw lumpy chunks of green water hard on the skylights, one after the other, and every form of Joss invocation that has ever incubated in Cuhay went out into the darkness. Three-fourths of that batch had never been in anything bigger than a sampan, and when the old tramp started bucking down they set so many joss-sticks going that they could sniff it up at Singapore.

Pandemonium got round without any leopards on board the Black Princess that night. Every time one of those green Himalayas got under her and tossed her smokestacks up to the spot the moon ought to have been, but wasn't, the mob put out a combination yell that bored into the blackness like a sound torpedo. Cameron was pretty bad-tempered just then. The captain was drunk and Goggles had climbed into his bunk, and we were praying that the mat-palms wouldn't shake off when the propeller raked.

The Chows got hold of some crackers about midnight, and things got livelier. "Goggles, get out of the hatch below!"

The little fellow brandished a fire-dice and was marching off to do his job on his own hook when Cameron called him back.

"Hold on!" he shouted, then he turned to Mackey and Driscoll. "Get that fat Chinkie up here," he yelled. "If he doesn't come when you ask him, carry him up."

And thus carried him. He had on a red sleeping gown that cracked like a burster in the cold, and when Cameron told him to go down and quiet the menagerie, his eyes got as big as his soul's was in light.

"No!" he screamed. "Plenty bad man, Cappy Cameron! Plenty damn convict. Velly bad fellow!"

"They'll burn up the old tub," roared Cameron. "Come on, you'll have to go to bed!"

Driscoll was looking Goggles by the red silk multibust, but when Captain Jack moved up the deck the Chinkie laid a yell of protest and dashed down the stairs leaving half his sleeping outfit in Driscoll's way. He missed his footing on the ladder when Mackey dived down, and the flop with which he came on the bottom shook the ship. He was a muddy fat Chow.

"I don't see," roared Cameron. "We'll put the muzzle on him and on him own."

That didn't answer was no fool when it came to using a breech-loader. He was the first of the batch of yelling devils was a head, and a fired Captain Jack's admiration. The little fellow was a little bit worse, and he just was up a lane up the center of the mob till he pattered them in. God didn't they scream!

One fired a jumpan-jack in the air, and he had his port light closed for the rest of the trip.

But the little engine got the best. "I'll stick them in my dungholes," he said; "my kids are always gettin' me about the Fourth of July." Then he went down to his old scrap-heap and forsook about the night. He made quite an impression on Captain Jack Cameron.

It seems that Goggles had intended to put into Hongkong to a few more additions to his menagerie, but the way has passed. We were playing up just to a pink him change his mind. The all was cancelled, so Cameron swung the old scow down toward Mindoro, and then we went slouching across the Sul Sea like a drunken thing. The Prince was a hoodoo boat of the first magnitude. Didn't she come up on deck. The engineer quivered the flutter came quivering after us, and when they punched her in the ribs it made lungs of it as big as tin plates fall off her old battered sides. And if hatch below kept howling like a pack of Australian shepherds.

We had better weather across the Anafara, and Goggles started to back on the Great Gun. It did the day he hired us to the Street of All Joys. The passengers began to air themselves a bit, too, but they looked pretty nervous at the little engineer whenever he let his engines come up on deck. The engineer quivered the worst looking lot of monsters that he had ever seen, and there wasn't anybody around to contradict him, either. They were sea-pieces of the lowest sort.

"Wonder where he's going to run 'em to?" said the engineer to Cameron, as we were pounding the Great Banner.

"Run who in?" asked Captain Jack.

"Why, the Chinkies," said the engineer, bobbing his head toward the yellow heathens wallowing round the deck.

Cameron started at him. Something just came into his mind at that minute, and he couldn't get his breath for a second. "New!" he murmured.

The engineer started back. "Not him," he said. "The skipper; it's out to me before you came aboard. This is a smuggled batch. Why, man, each of those devils will have to pay a hundred pound poll tax to get into Australia, and Goggles lunks he can do it. Let's see. Eight hundred Chinamen—that's eighty thousand pounds! Let's see if he can manage things successfully. Get that's a bunch of money!"

Cameron looked as if he had got a punch on the jaw, then he sucked mightily hard at his pipe for a minute. It was funny how he had overlooked the fact that the Alton Laws had the Chinkie Princess off that he hadn't had much time to think about what Goggles was up to.

"It's pretty easy to run a batch like this into a country that's trying to keep 'em respectable," said the little engineer. "But we're not the same, we're only. Say! Look at the captain!"

He pointed up to the bridge when he yelled, and when we looked we saw the drunken captain chasing the Portuguese mate and brandishing a bottle of brandy he held in his hand.

Cameron let out a shout and rushed for the ladder, grabbing up a lump of rope as he ran. The captain had been on the verge of delirium for the few days previous, and it looked as if he was on a snake-hunting expedition the way he waved the bottle. He stood and looked at Captain Jack for a second, then he made a dive at his side and went over. He took the brandy bottle with him, too.

We never saw him after he went down. He skidded out of sight as if he had half a dozen fire-bars wedged to his ankles, and out of Australia, but he had been so busy keeping the Black Princess afloat that he hadn't had much time to think about what Goggles was up to.

that just then. They must have been looking at the chart, and then we heard the captain let himself out a bit.

"Newcastle it is!" growled Cameron. "That's the spot I'm leading her for, and."

"But, Cappy," interrupted Goggles, "you listen one little minute, me tellen you. Lettine me talk. The Dutchman he knew all, he say alse. Pretty awful bad luck he drown, but you alse same wice, you Cappy Cameron, I know you plenty nice bloke. Now looker here. See, littre make here. Velly good. You can dreamer in there."

"Where?" growled Cameron.

"See, littre creek, no one see; no one know one damn thing No town, no nothing. Alse same plenty lunk."

Goggles was getting excited, and he pulled like a motor boat. Driscoll kicked me in the shin to show that he was alive to the importance of the conlaw.

"No risk, Cappy," whined Goggles, as Cameron remained inert. "Not one littre lot of risk, see, you landerly elly one, you taken boat on Newcastle after. Alse same, no one know one thing. Plenty Chinee there, smuggle alse same coolie right away. Keppem quiet. What say?"

"Captain Jack didn't answer, and the Chinaman's breathing wasn't of the noisiest variety.

"I pay you one—two thousand pounds," gurgled Goggles; "pay you right now."

"Yes!" muttered Cameron as if he was sort of astonished by the size of the wad offered.

"Yes," chirruped the Mongolian, "me pay you now."

Cameron laughed, and it sort of made the Chow nervous.

"Two thousand, Cappy," he stammered, when Captain Jack kept on goggling like as if he saw a big joke in the business.

"No, no," snapped Cameron, "not for three thousand!"

Goggles seemed to be pretty close to hysterics by the sound of his voice. "Five thousand pounds, Cappy Cameron!" he shouted.

"Me pay you five thousand pounds!"

"Not for thirty thousand, damn you!" shouted Cameron. "I'm not an Australian, but I'm an American, and curse your yellow hell I ought to chuck you overboard for asking me! I wouldn't smuggle this batch of mongrels into the country if you gave me every penny that you'll have to pay—that you'll have to pay, Mr. Confucius, unless you take 'em back or dump 'em overboard!"

"Now don't come pestering me again or I'll wring your neck!"

"Mother o' Moses!" muttered Driscoll when we heard Cameron walk away, and then we listened to the best example of Chinese snoring that we had ever struck. Gee! that Chinkie did roll it out in hot style.

We were off Port Macquarie then, rolling along in a smooth sea, and Driscoll and I sneaked forlard wondering what Goggles would do with his load of riffraff.

"That fat devil is good enough to poison a man," grunted Driscoll, but we didn't say anything about it to Mackey or the engineer.

It was Cameron's business, and Captain Jack was generally able to look after his own little affairs. When any one batted in without his leave, he lost his temper hurriedly and—and things.

Cameron was on the bridge about eight o'clock, and Driscoll and I were stretched out on the forlard deck staring at the Southern Cross, when we heard Captain Jack yell, and that started the biggest racket I ever heard outside a New York political demonstration.

Driscoll tumbled to the cause of the trouble.

"They're on to Cameron!" he yelled, and grabbing a spanner he cut for the bridge at full speed, whooping like a Pathan as he was that was a fight! When we got to the bridge, Captain Jack had about thirty pagans hanging to him, and the way sections of that mass shot away from him at times proved that he wasn't idle.

The spanner in Driscoll's hands did some tremendous execution, while Mackey asked I cut and I walked with a pair of avdvi poles trying to even up things. But we hadn't a hope.

The little engineer joined us with the fire-screw, but the odds were against us, and in made twenty minutes the live of us were trussed up on deck, while a swarm of mongolians were lowering a boat. Cameron handed a few lumpy remarks to the Chows while we were waiting, and that made the fat heathen so wild that he gave Captain Jack a farewell wallop with a mop before they passed him over to the boat.

Biff, bang, one after the other, they slipped us over the side, while the yellow-skinned mate and the Portuguese engineer looked on without moving an eyelash, and then that old junkshop rolled off into the night and left us. Cameron's language was

He hit through the side of the ship, and he was so mad, and shook his fist at the Black Princess till his arms got tired.

"By the big toe of Buddha," he growled, "if I don't get even with that fat Mongolian I'll never go back to the States again!"

"Sit down or you'll upset the boat!" screamed the engineer.

The Theatres

MARGUERITE CLARK
AT THE MAJESTIC.

By NICHOLAS YOUNG.

IF you can believe the man who runs the booking department for Lieber & Co., plump blondes are more to be desired at the Plymouth Theatre than slender brunettes. Which perhaps, explains the sudden readjustment of affairs by which May Irwin moves into the Eliot street house to-morrow to take the place of Dorothy Dandeely. A respected movement of Miss Irwin toward Boston means that we are to have added reason for laughter this week, for her new farce, "She Knows Better Now," is said to be built on a plan that is deadly to bad humor. This will be Miss Irwin's first visit to Boston, outside of Cambridge, for several years, and while her incoming has been rather noiseless for one of her temperament, a large measure of jolly entertainment is promised. "The Princess Zim-Zim," with which Miss Dandeely has been endeavoring to interest theatre-goers, is to undergo repairs before its invasion of New York begins. With the arrival of Miss Irwin theatrical Boston will be pretty much under the control of light-hearted entertainment, for, with the exception of "The Tail of the Lonesome Pine," every local theatre is entering a laughing show. It is safe to conclude, even in advance, that Miss Irwin will hold her own in that style of entertainment.

THE most interesting character of the past week at the theatres was Walter Jones, whose heavy-weight comedy in "Baby Mine" filled every evening with comic cases. His spangled farce seems to have hit a popular chord, and Mr. Braden's early hopes of an extended engagement will doubtless be realized. You may safely leave it to Mr. Jones to seek at every audience at the Manhattan Theatre, where he is engaged with the world, the weather and the theatre. Mr. Jones is no rank stranger to the Boston stage, but nothing that he has ever done approaches in any way the infectious comedy that he supplies to the life of Jimmy Jenks. He robs January of its bitter cold.

THE play writing general, formerly Paul Curran, is now in the city, and is to make a contract play. Boston young women who wish to make a contract play, "That Case of the Jitters," by Paul Curran, is the play. Theatre town is now in the hands of the young playright, and it is to be expected that a new play produced on the Broadway stage at the present week promises to be a first-rate one. Keith's bill, filled with loyal jokers, will be a first-rate one. Professor George F. Baker, who is to make a contract play, is a playright who is to make a contract play, and if the fountain pen is not the market may soon be choked with the dramatic writings of his interesting class. Miss Lewis, who will surely be on hand this week to see that Mr. Keith's actors give good service, was a classmate of Miss Florence Lincoln, who wrote "The End of the Bridge," and of Edward Sheldon, who looks with serious eyes upon the drama as the author of "The Nigger," "The Boss," "Salvation Nell" and "The Princess Zim-Zim." It is worth remembering that the young women of Cambridge are setting a fast pace for their brother-playwrights on the Harvard side of the square.

FORTUNE plays queer pranks, even in the world of the stage. A good example of this is found at the Colonial Theatre, where John Bowman, the gallery doorman, when in a reminiscent mood, may look back to the days just following the Civil War and see himself as one of the lively members of the team of Bowman and Harris, song and dance artists. Bowman's partner in those days was William Harris, now one of the biggest figures in the theatrical world and one of the lessees of the Colonial Theatre where Bowman guards the gallery gate. The team of Bowman and Harris toured the country for several years. Then they disagreed and separated, each taking a new partner. Dame Fortune took a hand in the affairs of each—smiling up on Harris and frowning upon Bowman. And those who pretend to know will tell you that in the song and dance days Bowman was the half of the team that made the act popular.

AND so we are to have a return of Weber and Fields, and a big all-star cast. The public's statements that the renewal of business relations between these entertainers is the result of deep sentiment and an undying love for each other sounds very pretty, but it's dollars to peanuts the main object is to gather in a lot of quick change. It will be observed that the tour of the new Weber and Fields combination will start late in the season and continue only a few weeks, also that the feminine star of the organization, Lillian Russell, will desert her employers after a few performances to enter into matrimony with a gentleman from Pittsburg. The promoters of the Weber and Fields reunion hit upon a bright scheme to draw business to the theatres at a time in the season when only an extreme novelty could possibly enjoy gate receipts of any size.

WITH the retirement of Miss Russell from the stage to the more sober occupation of matrimony, play-writing and contriving daily hints to seekers after beauty, we shall lose an actress who will be sincerely missed by thousands of play-goers. No player of recent times—masculine or feminine—has enjoyed a more loyal following than Miss Russell. It is true that she has not always been fortunate enough to have the best play in the world to help swell box office returns, but she has never failed to lend her own wonderful charm to her dramatic efforts. To city theatre-goers, who have known her intimately in a professional way for many years, Miss Russell has lost some of her novelty, but it is doubtful if there is a star of to-day's stage who could make a country-wide tour of the smaller cities and even remotely approach the matchless Lillian in receipts. In towns of one, two and three-night playing schedules she is still the greatest attraction in the country.

IT is said that the exclusive Lambs' Club shuddered when it heard that some of its members had fallen before the allurements of motion picture promoters. The Lambs who are working at steady jobs shouldn't exhibit ill temper because some of the less fortunate members have discovered in motion pictures a legitimate field of endeavor in which a substantial reward for services is collected. The latest recruit to picture acting is said to be Nat Goodwin, who is financially interested in a moving picture factory in San Francisco. Mr. Goodwin will doubtless find the profits sufficiently agreeable to offset any unfriendly comment that may be directed toward him. Already several well-known players of the legitimate stage have cast their fortunes with moving pictures, notably John Bunny, who is one of the Vitagraph's best comedians; Mabel Taliaferro, who engaged in the work in Chicago; and Mildred Holland. The feeling in Europe regarding moving picture acting is not at all unfriendly, and many of the most brilliant of the French, German and Italian players of the present period appear regularly in picture plays. With so many well equipped actors seeking employment, it would seem that motion pictures must offer a sensible relief from the pressure of hard times.

IN spite of the tears that have been shed over the dreadful state of affairs in theatrical Chicago, the old town cannot be as bad as it is painted. Here is David Belasco, a man of consistently good judgment, who says that he wants to produce more plays in Chicago because the play-goer there knows a good thing when he sees it. He threatens to send another play to Chicago this season for its first production. "I can get a trustworthy verdict here," he explained to a newspaper man, "one that is discerning and reliable." Doubtless Mr. Belasco found a friendly welcome for his wares in Chicago.

WHILE vaudeville is enjoying a period of real uplift through its association with the eminent shooting girls, Misses Conrad and Graham, it is also threatened with the loss of one of its most fascinating artists. It is reported that Miss Annette Kellermann is to divorce herself from the two-day next season for the more serious task of becoming a legitimate star in a great tank drama. In her search for higher honors Miss Kellermann should not lose sight of the fact that when Mr. Keith coaxed her away from a side show at Wonderland Park and gave her a brilliant setting for her work, she had no particular or profitable following. Miss Kellermann owes much to vaudeville.

HERES sad news for male stars George W. Lederer, who has recently returned from retirement and found old-fashioned prosperity in musical shows, declares that after this season there will be no more stars on his pay roll. He says he wants no more of the electric lighted actor, and tells why. In his opinion a woman is more interesting than a man in a theatre, and he believes that the public has a livelier desire to pay money to see an unimportant actress than an important actor. Mr. Lederer also believes that, with a few temperamental exceptions, the women of the stage are easier to handle than the men. It is possible that the 6 o'clock whistle is blowing for the faithful John Drews, John Masons and other masculine heroes?

VINCENT CLUB GIRLS WILL ADAPT SWEET CHARITY IN ANNUAL THEATRICALS

Society Calendar Is Crowded with Events During the "Joy Month"

By ELIZABETH ELLIOTT.

JANUARY spells the joy month to society. While the year is young the dance is on; joy certainly uncounted and pleasure is full.

With the holiday relaxation and under the stimulus of the crisp winds of New England, every member of the Hub's "Joy" is in the "Joy" and more than a day for a final fling at the festivities and frivolities that reach a grand climax before the close of the "Joy" month.

Open to all the features of society life and pleasure crowded days follow uncounted nights.

Just as with an aftermath of "coming-out" affairs will bring to a close a "non-pleasant" pre-eminently brilliant.

The rest of the dance will culminate in assemblies more dazzling and more exclusive than ever. Then the grand planning for faraway unnumbered, "overcrowded" hours where the elite of the Hub will contribute to the "Joy" month.

ASSEMBLY BIG SMART SET EVENT.

The elite of the Hub will hold all sorts of wonderful things in store for the smart set, and naturally the most important of these is the annual assembly. This year's assembly will be given at the Ritz Hotel, and the guests will be the elite of the Hub. The assembly will be a grand affair, and the guests will be the elite of the Hub. The assembly will be a grand affair, and the guests will be the elite of the Hub.

PRETTY BOSTON SOCIETY GIRLS AS THEY APPEARED IN VINCENT CLUB PLAY

In the central row of pictures, the group in the centre shows, in the back row, Mrs. Thomas B. Gannett, Jr., Misses Anne Nelson, Olga Lingard, Pauline Jones, Amy Thorp; seated in front, Dorothy Coburn and Elizabeth Nash. At the left are Mrs. Thomas B. Gannett, Jr., and Miss Madeline Appleton. The group of three at the right are Misses Alice Thorndike, Evelyn Thayer and Alice De Ford.

Closing Saloons Good Friday
One of the Aims of Catholic Union.

The next conference of the board of government of the various societies affiliated with the United Brotherhood of Carpenters and Joiners of America will be held today in Cheverus Hall.

At the opening of the meeting, which was signed by the Rev. Maurice J. O'Connor, D. D., President John T. Shea and Secretary John E. Fitzgerald, contains the following items:

"This convention will be important. Committees on the evening party will receive suggestions and the legislative committee will give."

The Breeding Board of Boston has taken action to prevent the sale of dogs being served to women. Since we have been told that there are about 100 places where women are served has been decided to take action against the board said to Governor Ross devices more than 100 places where women are served."

"In the questions of closing saloons on Sunday and representative have asked such service as they can give to the community."

Commissioner in Rome.

By C. O'CONNELL GALVIN.

ST. PETER'S, in Rome, as it stands today, is the largest and one of the grandest buildings in the world. The first church of St. Peter was founded in the year 260 by Constantine the Great, at the request of Pope Sylvester I. The site chosen was in the Circus of Nero, above the grave of St. Peter.

Rev. Father McManus, to replace the present pastor of the church with one of the beautiful deacons, who are better educated. They cost approximately $30,000, which expenditure will be met by the church treasury, with a regular monthly collection. Involving no extra expense upon the parishioners.

The various societies of the church represent a large part of the church affairs with many progressive plans for the new year.

one cause or another, the plot of St. Peter's, as we know it, was resumed in 1450, Bramante being the architect in charge of the work.

The full development of the mighty pile occupied from that first start onward no less a period than 170 years.

Linked forever with St. Peter's was the name of Bramante, Raphael, Michelangelo, Bernini, Borromini, and Bernini again.

They had all their say, and each did left behind them as imperishable message to the ages.

It was a startling impression that flashed through my mind as I stepped over the threshold of St. Peter's for the first time.
